Joe MacKechnie
November Speaker OAL
Nov 19, 2015

Artist Joe Mac Kechnie will present at our November meeting.

Joe is a signature member of the Pastel Society of America, Northwest Watercolor Society, Northwest Pastel Society, and the Puget Sound Group of NW Artists. He is a member of the Portrait Society of America, the Oil Painters of America and has served as president of the Eastside Assoc of Fine Arts and president of the Puget Sound Group of NW Artists.

Joe teaches art workshops locally and in Europe. Joe has artworks in several local galleries in the Seattle area and Alaska. And he has had artworks in the Butler Institute of American Art in Youngstown, Ohio and the National Arts Club, Grand Gallery in New York, NY. Joe has won many local and national art awards and has been featured in the Pastel Journal magazine, Southwest Art magazine, American Art Collector magazine and Strokes of Genius.

Joe was born in Petersburg Alaska and raised in the Pacific Northwest. As an engineering graduate of the UW, Joe worked as a computer network design engineer in the Seattle area for many years. After retirement, Joe has pursued a career in fine art.

In his recent studies, Joe continues to research the subject of eye/brain interactions and how humans respond to representational images differentially from visually abstracted images. Using this knowledge, Joe will start with abstracted block-ins of shapes and colors and then refine these in such a manner so that there is a pleasing balance between the abstracted and the representational. For this demo, Joe will using oils and pastels.”

Embracing Fun

Do you ever just fool around experimenting with your paints, paper and tools? Just for fun? Do you take time out for fun stuff?

One of my very favorite watercolor artists, Jean Haines, always begins her workshops by teaching her students how to "play with their paints." She is amazed at how intimidated her students are by a blank canvas. She is British and teaches how to "paint for the bin (garbage can)." As artist's we expect masterpieces every time we pick up a brush so we rarely allow ourselves to just have fun and play. Jean requires that her students begin EVERY painting session with a little play time - blending, salting, spattering and spritzing colors on scrap paper. There is an amazing amount of learning that transpires during this play time. Your palette becomes a friend instead of a mystery. There is so much that we can learn by playing with our medium. We become excited about our discoveries and inspired to incorporate them in our next painting.

There's a kind of purposeful madness when you deviate from your serious path. It becomes a recess from regular labor. It definitely reboots the muse. "Necessity may be the mother of invention, but play is certainly the father," says creativity coach Roger von Oech. If you ever doubted the value of play, take a look at what the great thinkers, inventors and artists have to say about playing.

Albert Einstein: "Play is the essential feature in productive thought."

American conceptual artist and minimalist Sol LeWitt: "Your work isn't a high stakes, nail-biting professional challenge. It's a form of play. Lighten up and have fun with it."

Gottfried Benn: "Whoever wants to understand much must play much."

Joel Saltzman: "I'm going to have some fun here. I'm going to play around and discover some really neat stuff."

Gaye Adams: "Let's work hard, but take the pressure off ourselves and have some fun with the process. Otherwise, what is the point?"

George Di Carlo: "If it's not fun you're doing it wrong."

Gwen Fox: "Having fun with our creativity makes us a better artist and a better person."

Dale Carnegie: "People rarely succeed unless they have fun in what they are doing."

Peter Scott: "You've made your bed, now go bounce on it."

The key is to loosen up, relax and find the joy in your work. Give yourself permission to let go and play. Enjoy yourself and have some fun.

OAL Artists & Friends Trip Seattle Art Museum - SAM

Our October trip to Seattle was to the SAM and was a success. All six of us enjoyed different aspects of the impressionist exhibit. We had a quick lunch at a small shop close to the museum before doing the exhibit. We arrived 35 minutes later than we expected do to I-5 congestion. Everyone took the delay in good spirits.

Would definitely say it is worthwhile.

Enjoy Art!

Think Tank

Tuesday

Our next Think Tank will be November 10 at 2PM, Hagen's (the old Top Food) on Olympia's west side.

This is a venue for OAL members to share a cup of tea or coffee, socialize, talk art and think of ways to improve Olympia Art League! Roxana will be there to greet and visit. Members are encouraged to socialize, talk art, and think up terrific ideas to make OAL a more amazing art club!

October OAL Demo—The members of Olympia Art League were again treated to a very talented and entertaining artist in October as Brandi York demonstrated her amazing pastel skills.

Brandi spent her beginning professional years as an artist doing portraits at Disneyland. Somehow she developed the ability to talk and do art at the same time so her amazing demonstration was filled with the patter of suggested supplies, methods and amusing experiences.

Our members were mesmerized and regretted that 8:30 “time to go home” call. Brandi’s use of “pan” pastels as an undercoat was new for many of us.

Our pastel members are hoping Brandi can find time to put together a workshop on portraits because it was obvious she has a lot of knowledge to share!

Thank You Brandi for making the gruesome I-5 drive south to share your talent!

GETTING AQUAINTED...

Each month we'll feature several of our members as a way to help get to know one another.

Contact Linda Selsor , lselsor@msn.com , 360-491-0377 to participate.

While walking around the capitol grounds in 2001, Ellen Cholski watched some OAL members enjoying a paint out. When she wandered over, Gloria Burton and Gema Casanas invited her to join them the following week. "At first, I used watercolors and amazingly became a painter. After taking a pastel class in 2006 from Susan Glendenning, I was hooked on soft pastels. I love working close to my fingertips with the many colors." Ellen spends summers on the sparkling shores of Puget Sound and winters in sunny Tucson in the richly diverse Sonoran Desert. "I am grateful to be able to paint in two beautiful places. Nature is delightfully beautiful, and, hopefully, my art reflects some of that beauty."

art reflects some of that beauty."

Clara Hamavand, an Olympia Art League member for 11 plus years, enjoys working in pastels, watercolor and acrylics. After a life-long interest in fine arts, she earned her BA at Columbia College of Chicago in her twenties. "Now I get my inspiration to do art from the ocean and natural landscapes. In 2014 I exhibited paintings at the Olympia State of the Arts Gallery. In 2005 my multi-media painting was accepted in a juried Capital Studio Visual Art Exhibit through the Olympia Art League. My mentors have been Susan Glendenning and Anne Barroll, each with her own distinct style of art. Since being semi-retired, I look forward to creating and exhibiting many pieces of art."

Jean Van Doren has lived in the area for 25 years, been active in the art community and been with the Arts Gallery since arriving. She's a long time member of OAL and joined Arts Olympia about 5 years ago. "My style has evolved into impression and semi-abstract. The materials I use are varied depending on how I want to express my vision. Watercolor, papers, acrylic, pastels, pen and ink are the main materials used for my nature inspired art." Jean "always enters the state fair in Puyallup." She leads OAL outings and is a member of the Abstract Critique Group. Jean is a member of the Peninsula Art Association, WA; Nevada Art League, Reno; and, the Art League, Moses Lake, WA.

Mural Refurbishment Project

Some time ago Marge McGinley painted the two popular murals which grace the entrance to the Fine Arts Pavilion in the Sokolik Building at the Thurston County Fair. You've seen them and loved them for years. Now they need a little attention.

We will be looking for volunteers to help strip off the old protective finish (which is leaving with or without our efforts), do light cleaning of the murals and recoat them with another protective varnish. It appears that the artwork itself is in good condition.

The maintenance staff at the fair will help us remove these 4'x6' panels from the wall of the building and it is possible that we can do the work right there at the fairgrounds. Sooo if you have an interest in the preservation of a public art piece, contact Diana Fairbanks by phone at her studio at 360-878-9529 or email at OlyImag-es@comcast.net

Mimi Williams & Mary Gentry

Wednesday, November 4 | 7:30 - 8:45 p.m.

For Adults

Mimi Williams will demonstrate her unique technique for creating linoleum block prints. Mary Gentry will read excerpts from "Quite Contrary" and "Too Far from the Tree" and discuss the magic and importance of "catching stories." This program will occur after regular library hours and no other library services will be available.

Mimi & Mary—Art Demo & Reading Writer Mary Gentry and artist Mimi Williams have been friends for years. It began when their daughters shared a kindergarten class. Their creative collaboration, however, started only last year, in 2014, with the publication of the book, "Quite Contrary." Written by Gentry, the book is a collection of humorous essays about what she calls the "homely things of life." William's exquisitely cut and colored linoleum block prints adorn the cover and chapter headings.

The creative duo will talk about their work Wednesday, November 4 from 7:30 to 8:45 p.m. at the Olympia Timberland Library. Williams will demonstrate her artistic technique. Gentry will read from "Quite Contrary" and "Too Far from the Tree."

Gentry moved to Olympia in 1966 and taught English and drama at Tumwater High School. From 1979 to 2007, she worked as an estate-planning attorney with the firm Bean and Gentry. Williams taught third grade at Olympia's Pioneer Grade School.
